

NEW PLANS FOR PANAMA CANAL

IT CANNOT BE CONSTRUCTED ON THE OLD PLANS.

Since They Were Prepared, Says Chief Engineer, Shipyards Have Increased in Size, Necessitating a Much Deeper and Wider Isthmian Waterway.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—It is a mistaken idea to suppose that plans for the Panama canal have been adopted by the Isthmian Canal Commission, said Chief Engineer Wallace, who will have charge of the work of constructing that great waterway.

"As a matter of fact," he continued, "it will probably be a year, and perhaps more, before it can be determined just what kind of a canal can best be built. That did not mean, however, that no work on the great enterprise will be done in the meantime.

On the contrary, work will be pushed as rapidly as possible on those portions, notably the great Culbreth cut, which can be continued, no matter whether the canal will be at sea level or have one, two or more sets of locks.

"First of all, the canal cannot be constructed on the plans prepared by the French company, because since that work was begun twenty years ago the size of ships had increased nearly 100 per cent., and it will be necessary to make the canal not only broader than the old one, but to entirely new surveys, borings and plans for the entire stretch, and with all the expedition that could be employed in that work a year, perhaps, will be necessary to complete it.

"Not only have definite and accurate surveys for every foot of the ground to be made, but the character of the earth or rock for feet below the water level of the canal must be determined, so that it can be told with certainty whether masonry work will be required to support the sides of the great ditch. Besides, before contractors could be asked to bid for the work of excavation they must be assured of the character of every foot of the ground they are to handle, whether hard or soft rock, earth or sandstone. This necessitates thousands and thousands of borings, some of them to great depth, and will require considerable time.

"It is also a mistake," Mr. Wallace said, "to say that the present Canal Commission is committed to the two or three locks plan for the canal. It is not committed in any way. The old commission, which made investigations and surveys of all the trans-Isthmian routes, had, for the sake of comparison with the Nicaragua route, the plan for the Panama route on the plan for locks, with a ninety foot summit level. This was approximately the same as on the Nicaragua route, and the water of the Rio Chagres River, forming a lake forty miles square and supplying the necessary water for the summit level, was much like the Nicaragua.

"The old commission, however, made no surveys for the actual work of construction, they were merely preliminary, with a view to determining the best of the routes across the strip. The present commission, therefore, must make its own plans for the work of construction, and the great dam at Bohio, which they were made for a smaller canal. Still, they will be of great assistance in preparing the new plans, and it will not be necessary to do all the work over again.

"The commission has surveyed parties now at work all along the line of the canal, and it was probably the report of one of these parties, or the fact that the terrain contains what could possibly be utilized to carry off the waters of the Chagres River, that had given rise to the great dam at Bohio, which had or would be adopted. If it were practicable to so divert the waters of the Chagres, or otherwise—for instance, by tunnelling through the great dam at Bohio, or down in some of the engineering difficulties at the Bohio dam, it would not mean that a sea level plan will necessarily be adopted, but the information upon which to determine the nature of the plan to be followed there is the question of increased cost for the lockless canal, a matter of possibly $50,000,000.

"Owing to the magnitude of the work of collecting the necessary data, he thought at least a year would be required before any plan would be settled, and it might take a year and a half, even if the work were pushed to the utmost limit, before contractors could be asked to bid for the construction of the different sections of the canal.

Mr. Wallace will return to Panama about Nov. 1, and will make that his permanent headquarters hereafter.

THE PAYNE OBSEQUES.

Will Be Held With All the Observances of a State Funeral.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Services over the body of Postmaster-General Henry C. Payne will be held with all the observances of a state funeral in St. John's Church, Episcopal, to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock. The President and all the members of the Cabinet who are in the city, the members of the United States Supreme Court, the Diplomatic Corps and representatives of the army and navy and the civil departments of the Government will occupy seats reserved for them, admission to the church being by cards issued from the Department of State.

The plan to have a military escort accompanying the body of the dead Postmaster-General from the church to the railroad was abandoned by the request of Mrs. Payne. By direction of the President to-day, Major Charles L. Mcawley of the Marine Corps was detailed this morning to arrange for the seating of persons in the church, and Major Mcawley will be assisted by several officers representing different arms of the military service.

It has been decided that the body will lie in state in the City Hall in Milwaukee from Saturday evening until noon of Sunday, when it will be removed to All Saints Cathedral, where the last funeral services are to be held.

The following cable dispatch was received at the Post Office Department this afternoon from the Imperial German Postal Administration at Berlin:

"The Imperial German Postal Administration expresses to the Post Office Department its heartfelt sympathy on the loss it has suffered by the death of its highly honored Postmaster-General Payne.

"The officers of this service now in Washington Messrs. Kobelt and Krause will represent the Imperial Postal Administration at the funeral services.

The diplomatic representatives of France, Japan, Venezuela, Mexico, Guatemala, Cuba, Brazil, Denmark, Costa Rica and Corea called on Secretary Hay at the State Department this morning to offer their condolences on the death of the Postmaster-General.

ROBBERY IN CHURCH.

Man Arrested on Suspicion in Yonkers Hall, as a Confession.

YONKERS, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Andrew Richardson, who was the resident of Edinburgh, Scotland, was arrested by Detective John Healy on Main street, near Warburton avenue, to-day as a suspicious person, the detective believing that he recognized in him a person for whom the Yonkers detectives have been seeking for several months. On Sunday, July 10, Detective Sergeant Cooley was informed by a woman that while worshiping in St. John's Episcopal Church she had been robbed of a small handbag containing some cash and a check and a sum of money by a man who occupied the pew immediately behind her.

A description of the man was given to the detective some time by the janitor of the church, who said he had seen him loitering in the vicinity for two days. Richardson answered the description given. He was the former janitor, Edward Smith. He was charged with the robbery by Sgt. Cooley. At first he denied knowledge of the theft and even threatened to sue the detective for arrest and imprisonment, but later he admitted his guilt.

He said also that he had been convicted and sentenced to the State Prison for the robbery of the church, who said he had seen him loitering in the vicinity for two days. Richardson answered the description given. He was the former janitor, Edward Smith. He was charged with the robbery by Sgt. Cooley. At first he denied knowledge of the theft and even threatened to sue the detective for arrest and imprisonment, but later he admitted his guilt.

Pure, Healthful, Refreshing Apollinoris "The Queen of Table Waters"

SALE OF M'CAULEY PLANT.

International Mercantile Agency Assets Worth Over $25,000—Due for Creditors. The assets of the bankrupt International Mercantile Agency, which authorized liquidation stock was $3,000,000, were sold at auction yesterday to Charles H. Barrett of Philadelphia by Receiver George R. Beach for $25,500. The printers who got up the reference book for the company gave notice that they held a lien of $10,000 which the receiver would have to pay before he could deliver the type. In addition to this the receiver's fees, about $8,000, will have to be deducted from the proceeds. This will leave less than $2,000 for the stockholders and subscribers who have paid in advance.

Thomas M. McCauley was the first president of the company. He was recently arrested on a charge of embezzlement, made by Frank Wood of Boston, who invested $5,000 in the stock. McCauley was to have answered the charge in the Court of Special Sessions on Sept. 25, but he did not appear and his bail of $5,000 was declared forfeited. There was a scene in court when Assistant District Attorney General T. D. Hooper, who prosecuted McCauley, virtually accused the missing man a counsel, F. B. House, ex-Assistant District Attorney Schurman and A. J. Baldwin, of having conspired to keep McCauley out of court. McCauley had gotten away with $134,000, which he had raised on his property in Chicago.

The International Mercantile Agency was first put into the hands of the Sheriff in a suit brought against it by McCauley, who alleged that it owed him $54,000 and was to have financial control. The suit was then fled against McCauley, in which the company asked for an accounting, the officers alleging that he converted to his own use $1,200,000 which had been properly been paid into the treasury, and by so doing forced the concern into bankruptcy. Mr. Beach was then appointed receiver.

When the Mutual Mercantile Agency, which was organized by Erastus Wiman, became bankrupt McCauley brought its effects for $6,000 and got for them, it is said, over $1,000,000 of the international company's stock.

The sale yesterday included the reports of the agency on various business concerns throughout the country. These were sold separately to Mr. Barrett and brought but $10.

GIRL WASN'T MURDERED.

The Suicide of Minnie Harming was Concealed by Her Brother.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—From the confession of Fred Harming, brother of Minnie Harming, the eighteen-year-old girl who was believed to have been murdered in this city after trying to pawn a napkin ring, it appears that the girl ended her life by hanging from a beam. The boy, who is 19 years old, told his father to-day that when he returned to the barn from the fields he found his sister dead. He took the body down, he said, hid the rope and advanced the theory that she had been slain.

"I thought I had better not tell father that Minnie committed suicide," said the youth, "because he would feel bad." His confession to the police has led to the revelation that the girl had seen a man who had been attacked, it is now asserted that no examination had been made further than that of the girl's body. The man, who had been attacked, it is now asserted that no examination had been made further than that of the girl's body.

ANOTHER SCHOOL STRIKE.

Stock Yards Color Line in Chicago Draw Children in Teachers.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—That the school children of the stock yards district learned the lesson of the recent strike well was proved for the fourth time within a month to-day, when seventy-five pupils of Sherman school, Fifty-first and Morgan streets, refused to attend school because of an unfounded rumor that a negro woman had been engaged as a teacher.

Parrot Dies of Appendicitis.

STRATTON, Oct. 6.—The discovery that a pet parrot is subject to appendicitis has been made at Canandaigua. It was revealed at an autopsy on a dead parrot, and the revelation came as a great surprise to a number of physicians. One of the parrot's owners, a Mr. Thompson, of the northeastern extremity of the village, died after a comparatively brief illness, and to ascertain the cause of death a post-mortem examination was made. This proved clearly that the bird died of appendicitis. The superintendent of the mortuary, who performed the autopsy, found a millet seed in the bird's appendix.

Morrisstown Horse Show.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Oct. 6.—Under the most favorable weather conditions, the seventh annual horse show of the Morrisstown Field Club was started this afternoon. There was a large turnout of society and lovers of good horses. In the class for harness horses under the title of Lady of Quality and Miss Edith Hooker, Mrs. W. P. C. of Morrisstown, N. J., was the winner. She received only the red ribbon, while Miss Twombly, of Morrisstown, was fourth.

TRAVIS AGAIN GOLFING WELL.

THE BRITISH CHAMPION LEADS THE FIELD AT NASSAU.

Wins Gold Medal in the Thirty-six Hole Qualifying Round With 150—Doubtful as Travers Close to Successful Start in the Club's Annual Open Tournament.

After a rest since Baltusrol, where his American club passed to Chandler Egan, Walter J. Travis made his reappearance at the open tournament yesterday of the Nassau Country Club and won the low score medal in a manner worthy of the British amateur champion. His long game, but two holes, was strong and effective, while it would have done Maxwell, Hutchinson, or any of the Britishers good to watch him put.

Next to Hutchinson, who at Nassau was his old rival, Douglas is 160, and the new rival, Travers, interscholastic champion, at 168. The top score to qualify for the first cup was 188.

The storm seemed gathering in the morning and so only fifty-five of the ninety-four entries drove off. They found the putting greens slow and tricky from the rain over night, with a cold and furious wind blowing from the north. Every one blamed the weather and returned a high card save Travis, who led with 77, the premier score of the day. In the afternoon Travis did not so well by the stroke, although the afternoon was bright and sunny.

The cross wind was at its worst on the 300-yard second hole, where he was only able to get a 6 and a 7 here. Playing the ninth in the morning he topped the drive and it cost him a 6, but the hole he played in a faultless style for a 36. He rimmed for a 3 on the 443-yard fifteenth hole. In the afternoon he worked to bring the score also had a 7 on the tenth, where he pulled his drive out of bounds.

Joules drove brilliantly, and in the morning, but for the trap before it, he would have won. He worked to bring the score also had a 7 on the tenth, where he pulled his drive out of bounds. He was wild in direction somewhat, and on the sixth in the afternoon pulled his brassie into the hole, but he did not get the hole. Travis's card, which won the gold medal, was: Out, 4, 4, 4, 5, 5, 5, 6, 6—61. In, 5, 5, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4—37. Total, 98. The distances were the same as in the national open, and he was only able to get a 6 and a 7 here.

M'GRAW SHOULDERS BLAME. Says He is Responsible for Nationals Not Playing Americans. And still the baseball statements come. Johnny McGraw set out with one in which the manager of the New York Nationals shoulders the blame for his team refusing to play the American League pennant winners. The statement in part is as follows: I want to go clearly and emphatically on record in the matter of the Nationals' refusal to play a post season series. I was never accused of being a coward. It is not my nature to hide before a pennant race. I never yet refused to go to bat for my own team. I never yet refused to go to bat for my own team. I never yet refused to go to bat for my own team.
